

Giselle Potter has illustrated over 30 children's books, including The Year I Didn't Go to School (Atheneum), which she also wrote, about traveling in Italy with her parents' puppet troupe when she was eight. She also illustrates "Ties," a weekly column for The New York Times. She lives in the Hudson Valley.

I WOULD LOVE TO do a book set somewhere bright, colorful, and exciting to paint, like India, Vietnam, Mexico, or even a made-up place. I would also love to do more biographies!

PUBLISHED

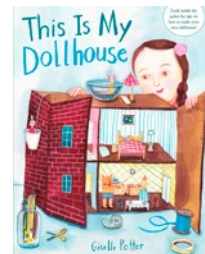

ATHENEUM

GREENWILLOW

SCHWARTZ & WADE

SCHWARTZ & WADE